

Third Annual 'Fore A Cure' Golf Tournament Raises $165,000 To Fund Cystinosis Research

Irvine, Calif. - The Cystinosis Research Foundation raised $165,000 from its third annual Fore a Cure, Natalie's Wish golf tournament. The sold out tournament, with a field of 144 golfers, enjoyed perfect weather for the Oct. 5 event at the Coto de Caza Golf & Racquet Club. The funds were raised from sponsorships, donations and valuable goods and services offered at the event's silent and live auctions.

Jim Plutt, Clay Ost, Mike Spruiell, and Aaron Hall (father of Nicole Hall) relax after a round of golf

All event proceeds will fund research to find a cure for cystinosis, a rare metabolic disease that afflicts 500 children and young adults in the United States and 2,000 worldwide.

“We are so thankful to all those companies and individuals who contributed to the success of the tournament. Their support is particularly meaningful in these challenging economic times,” said Nancy Stack, president and co-founder of the Cystinosis Research Foundation.

The tournament was supported by many generous sponsors, including:

Presenting Sponsor: Ross Plastering of Anaheim.

Silver Sponsor: SARES•REGIS Group

Bronze Sponsors: Bank of the West and Carol and Budge Collins

Media Sponsor: Orange County Business Journal

Printing Sponsor: Noelle Marketing Group

Longest Drive: First Regional Bank

Putting Contest: Contractors Flooring Service

Hole In One: Fletcher Jones Motorcars and Traditional Jewelers

Closest to the Pin: Chapman, Glucksman, Dean, Roeb and Barger; and Lincoln Property Group

Own a Hole Sponsors: AAA Property Services, Delta Wye Electric, Real Page Inc., Sanders & Wohrman, SERVPRO of Tustin, The Wine Club, Dzida, Carey & Steinman, Champion Fire Systems, and Curci Turner Co.

The Delta Wye Electric team plays for a chance to win a Fletcher Jones Mercedes sedan

More event photos are available on the Cystinosis Research Foundation Flickr site